ELBA, ALA., APRIL 21, 1911.

Sheriff Brown, of Geneva county, has raided the Peoples' Drug Store in Samson and got between forty and fifty pints of whiskey. Wonder if anything like that could happen in Coffee.

Some of the rebels suffered defeat at the battle of Agua Prieta on account of over-indulgence in intoxicating liquors. It might be a good war policy for the Federals to supply the insurgents with plenty of liquor.

The National Good Roads meeting, which will be held at Birmingham on the 28th to 30th of May, promises to be one of the greatest gatherings ever held in the state, and will have some of the most prominent speakers in attendance.

The poisonous blind tiger whiskey will kill you. A man who will run a blind tiger would not mind committing murder or doing other heinous crimes. Such a man is an outlaw and an anarchist, a most dangerous and undesirable citizen.

There are now prospects of peace in Mexico. International complications are threatened if the fighting does not cease. The rebels will agree to abandon the revolt, if President Diaz will resign, and let the people elect a president.

The State Medical Association was held in Montgomery this week. A special car of a liquid stronger than water, and not medicine, had been ordered for the medics, but Sheriff Hood caught it and took charge of it himself, and the doctors will probably go home sober.

Sheriff Hood, of Montgomery, is doing what should have been done long ago. He is making war on blind tigers in Montgomery. Two cars of beer and whiskey have been shipped out of Montgomery, soft drink stand proprietors are trying to get permission of the sheriff to move their stocks.

If you are not satisfied after using according to directions two thirds of a bottle of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets, you can have your money back. We think the commissioners will meet the general approbation of the people of the county, by calling an election divested of all "ifs" or conditions whatever. The people of the east, north, west and south, and center and all over the county need good roads, and the probate judge and county commissioner should seek to serve the people of the entire county in this matter, and we believe they will do so, and we would be willing to trust their honesty, fairness, and impartiality.

Some good roads enthusiasts have undertaken to impose conditions upon the commissioner and probate judge which the law does not warrant or justify and which, in our judgement would seriously handicap and embarrass them in the work of building good roads in the county.

Under the law the commissioners and probate judge are the only legally constituted body of persons in the county who can build good roads, and they are not under the control or direction of anybody except the state highway commission. Under a recent law, the general supervision of public road building in Alabama is given to the state highway commission, composed of R. E. Sprague, V. B. Atkins and John Craft.

The conditions which the committee yesterday sought to impose on the commissioners were not only contrary to the law, but impracticable and unbusinesslike, besides they implied a want of confidence in the fairness and ability of the commissioners as we construed them. It was unfortunate these men made this mistake and we are persuaded that they did it without mature consideration and without a knowledge of the provisions of the law.

We feel sure that they want good roads in the county. We hope the commissioners will yet call the election and let the people vote for good roads.

Leaders in Legislature For Higher Offices.

A special from Montgomery to the Birmingham News discusses some of the leaders in the recent legislature as follows:

"Walker Percy, of Jefferson, is slated by many for the office of United States Senator. No man in the recent legislature made a more decided impression on the state at large than Mr. Percy, and he was recognized as one of the most astute lawyers in the house. His fight on the abolition of the county back tax commission was a hardest contest in which he engaged during his legislative duties in Montgomery, and though he did not win, his efforts brought him to the front as one of the most daring and conspicuous leaders in the house.

Mr. Percy's friends believe that he could go to the United States senate should he wish the job, and it is more than probable that much influence will be brought to bear upon Mr. Percy to induce him to enter the race.

Oscar Mulkey, of Geneva, has been strongly advocated as the next candidate for governor. Others who have been mentioned for this high office are Lieutenant Governor Walter Seed and Judge E. B. Almon, though the latter has been more prominently suggested as the candidate for the next congressional term from his district.

Mr. Mulkey, like Mr. Percy, was one of the shrewdest lawyers in the house. The Geneva representative made a bold and fearless fight on all questions in which he felt at all interested, and long before the end of the session his friends began to speak of him for governor.

Judge Almon is believed to have the congressional bee in his bonnet, and it is confidently believed that he will run for that office in the next campaign. The speaker of the house was recognized as a fearless leader during the recent session, and his work has won for him considerable recognition throughout the state.

Henry Merritt of Macon and Fleetwood Rice of Tuscaloosa, are also among those who are expected to run for higher offices within the next four years. Mr. Merritt has been slated for the office of lieutenant governor, and though the Macon representative has not committed himself as to his political ambitions for the future, it is believed that he would not be averse to entering the race for that office. Mr. Merritt is the leader of the prohibitionists in the house, one of the best debaters, and one of the ablest lawyers.

The friends of Fleetwood Rice, of Tuscaloosa, have strongly mentioned him as a candidate for congress in the next campaign. Mr. Rice won considerable fame during the session just closed, and wielded a great deal of influence in the house. He frequently presided over the house, and his decisions were regarded as absolutely fair and just. An able lawyer, a strong debater and a bold fighter, Mr. Rice is expected to make a strong race for congress during the next campaign in his district."

POOR ORIGINAL

BLEED THROUGH

Memorial.

To the Worshipful Master and brethren of Pea River Lodge, No. 271.

We, your committee, appointed to prepare a memorial on the death of Brother Louis T. Spinks, respectfully offer the following:

Whereas, death hath entered our portals and selected as its victim Brother Louis T. Spinks, whose death occurred on the 15th day of February, 1911, at his late home near Victoria, in Coffee Co. We bow in humble submission to this dispensation of God's providence, realizing the fact, as we trace the record of our venerable brother, that he has left evidence of many shining virtues that it would be well for us to emulate.

We find that Brother Spinks was born in Morgan county, Ga., on the 19th day of January, 1845. That he came to the state of Alabama about forty years ago; that this old friend and brother married Miss Bessie McDermont on the 16th day of November, 1859, and that she yet survives him and is living at the old home.

Brother Spinks was initiated in Pea River Lodge, No. 271, on the 18th day of December, 1897; was passed to the degree of Fellowcraft on the 15th day of January, 1898; and raised to the sublime degree of Master Mason on the 19th day of February following.

He was an active member of Pea River Lodge, until he was called from labor here on earth to refreshment on high where the Supreme Grand Master of the universe presides.

Our brother is no more on earth. He has passed the final beacon by which all mortal men must go. He has passed over the river to rest on the ever-green shore, and while over his last days hung the dark and lowering clouds of affliction, that was indeed sad to contemplate by his relatives and friends, but as we behold the great concourse of people and the many mourners at his funeral services, we are impressed with the belief that a great man has passed away, and we are led to exclaim:

Beyond the sunset's radiant glow,
There is a brighter land I know,
Far from such unbelieved strife,
To all who share the life of life,
In man's kindred soul we view.
Our pity and relief are due.
Not ask we what religious rite
Conveys his orisons to heaven,
Enough for us if we comfort impart,
Or soothe the anguish of a breaking heart.
The widow's tear, the orphan's cry,
All wait our ready hand's supply.
As far as power is given,
The naked clothed, the hungry fed,
These are the works of noble charity,
The boon of a Mason's pledge.
Peace to thy ashes Brother Spinks,
Good will to thy posterity.

We recommend that this obituary be recorded on the lodge records, a copy furnished to the bereaved family, and a copy to the Elba Clipper for publication.

Respectfully submitted,
T. A. Kelley,
J. R. Phillips,
J. B. Revels,
Committee.

Home of Hon. C. W. Simmons Destroyed by Fire.

Last night at 12 o'clock the residence of Hon. C. W. Simmons, in Enterprise, was destroyed by fire. The family was awakened by the smoke that had filled the house when the fire had gained such headway that practically nothing was saved from the fire. The origin of the fire is not known.

There was $1200 insurance on the house and $500.00 on the furniture. The loss falls heavily on Mr. Simmons, and we certainly sympathize with him and his family in their great loss.

Mr. Simmons was in Elba at the time of the fire, having come there to attend the Chancery Court today. He went home on the early train this morning.

Double-Head.

What a dear and glorious day Easter always is to us all. So many great and noble happenings most always occur on Easter. Easter and good Friday are among our sacred holidays.

The writer is greatly pleased to note that on last Friday night a number of people from Double Head had the pleasure of attending a very interesting concert given by Prof. Edna Basely at Center Ridge church.

Prof. Henry Spivy and sister, Miss Eva Spivy, of Goshen were visitors to Double Head a few days ago. We all welcome them.

A good number of people listened to an able sermon on Easter Sunday by Rev. Will Tew at Hobson church.

On next Saturday night, April 22nd, there will be an ice cream supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Newsome's. Public for every body and every body is invited.

Prof. and Mrs. L. H. Hudson are attending the Teachers' Educational Association at Mobile this week. They are two of Coffee County's best teachers and we feel certain that they will return very much refreshed from hearing so many able lectures from educated men, and the joy that comes from seeing one of Alabama's largest cities. We wish them a pleasant trip.

We are sorry to say that Miss Mattie Grimes is very ill. We hope she will soon recover. It will soon be fruit time. We will all be glad when peaches and watermelons are ripe.

Calomel Gives Only Temporary Relief.

So Powerful It Shocks Liver And Leaves It Weaker Than Before. Dodson's Liver-Tone A Perfect Substitute.

Nearly everybody who has ever tried calomel for constipation or a sluggish liver has found that it gives only a temporary relief. For calomel is such a powerful drug that it shocks and weakens the liver and makes it less able afterward to do its duty than in the first place.

This is one of the reasons why the Elba Drug store would rather sell Dodson's Liver-Tone is a pure vegetable liver-tone that will cure constipation quickly and gently without any danger of bad after-effects. We guarantee it to do this with a guarantee that is simple and fair. If you buy a bottle of Dodson's Liver-Tone for yourself or your children and do not find that it is a perfect substitute for calomel, then come back to the store and get your money. If you don't get value for your money out of this tonic, its your right to expect your money back, and we will gladly give it to you.

A Reluctant Soldier—NOT A SOLDIER.

Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in which I have great faith. It cured the cough as well as the choking and gagging spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." City Drug Co.

Destruction of Old St. Jo.

Messrs. R. E. Bush, M. Milford and Paul Johnson returned from Florida a few days ago where they enjoyed an outing, catching fish and having a general good time. They spent quite a while at Old St. Jo and give the following graphic description of the destruction of the city at that place:

In this sub-tropical land nature swiftly obliterates man's abode attempts to check her eternal activity, and cower here this unequal struggle more pathetically depicted than along the low and coastal plain of St. Joseph Bay, where once stood one of Florida's historical cities, the few scattered relics of which are now known as Old St. Jo.

Many foreign seaboard countries have their traditions of cities that long ago were engulfed by the fury of the sea, but in this new world, in our own United States, we know of but one fair city that has met such a fate, and that was Old St. Jo.

Near four score years ago, men with unbounded ambition and lust of gold, the peers of the strenuous business men of to-day, builded as strongly and solidly as could be done with cement, brick and timber, a city here that drew to its portals many a prominent merchant, and traveler of the world of eighty years ago.

Even then the transportation question had become the paramount issue of the day. Peter Cooper had built the first locomotive in the United States; of the Gulf beach with its cool breezes drew to the favored spot during the long hot summer days from the plantations and cities of lower Georgia and Alabama, many professional men, planters and merchants, with their families and servants.

An Unwelcomed Visitor.

One Summer day in the year 1836 when the season was at its height, there sailed into the harbor from some tropical port a vessel with all uninvited guests on board. This was no welcome guest, his name the "yellow death." Daily showers had filled the noisome marshes surrounding the city with lukewarm fuming water, the most hot air was sweltering and depressing, swarms of mosquitoes rose from their many breeding places in marsh and swamp, as well as from the numerous ditches that interlaced the city; so many messengers of death. The medical sciences that have since conquered the awful ravages of yellow fever, and robbed of its terrors had not been born. To be stricken was to die.

Secretly, silently, this fatal guest stalked through the busy streets, stole into stores and offices, stole into the houses and the chambers of the city, and with the many who winced and died in the public hostilities, and frolicked with the old and young in this memorable year of 1846.

A Growing City.

The growing city then prospered and spread itself like "a green bay tree." Vessels brought to its inhabitants the luxuries of the Old World, as they returned from Liverpool for more cotton; while land ports were laden with the choicer products of the New World. Florida's historian, G. R. Fairbanks, states that in December, 1833, an important convention was held here to formulate a state constitution. He further says that "it was by all odds the ablest body of men ever assembled in Florida."

Its railway connection with the Appalachicola river brought to its doors not only the products, but the people who used the Chattahoochee and Flint rivers, and their tributaries as waterways to reach the east, and St. Jo promised soon to rival Charleston, Savannah, or New Orleans, both in trade and attractiveness.

Along the shore of the bay near the railway terminals were spacious and handsome stores, with public hostleries, billiard halls, and other places of amusement facing the water; farther back were stately churches and public buildings; while still farther away from the turmoil of business, along streets shaded by oaks and palms, were the elegant homes of the professional and business men of old St. Jo.

An Idyllic Life.

Life there then was idyllic. In the heat of the summer a sail across the bay to Eagle harbor provided the finest of surf bathing, while in the evenings dancing and neighborly gatherings in the commodious homes added to make living more pleasant. There were well trained servants to answer every call, and the languidness of the southern was everywhere.

Thus for a decade, between 1835 and 1845, St. Jo held a place among the living cities of the lower South. The few remaining stones in the old burying ground situated a mile or more back from the shore on a little oak covered knoll, show that the first interment therein was 1831, the last in 1850. It is said that in its prosperous days there were over five thousand inhabitants in the little city, while charms to the islander of the Gulf beach with its cool breezes drew to the favored spot during the long hot summer days from the plantations and cities of lower Georgia and Alabama, many professional men, planters and merchants, with their families and servants.
